This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

INTRODUCTION.

THE extensive and varied collection of coins and medals introduced to the notice of the American public in the following pages, has been well known in Europe for many years, a large part of it having been formed by Dr. F. Vieweg, of Berlin, Prussia.

Its foundation was laid from the collections of Baron Welzl von Wellenheim, of Vienna; Prince of Pless, Berlin; Baron of Schultheiss Rechberg; and Mr. K. Vander Chijs, Amsterdam.

But although thus distinguished in its origin, this rare cabinet is under great obligations to its present owner, Mr. George Stenz, of Hanover, Germany, for large and costly additions to the original stock. This gentleman's plan comprehended the coins of all modern nations, beginning with their earliest history. A glance at the various divisions of the catalogue will show how fully his scheme was carried out, but it will appear to have been more nearly completed in the German than in any other department.

The number, quality, and rank of the coins of German cities, principalities, and minor governments, many of them long since, and others but recently sequestrated, will strike the American numismatist as very large. No opportunity has before occurred to purchase coins of the same importance at an American sale, and it may be safely predicted that in future years, coins from this cabinet will be pointed out with pride as the ornaments of many a famous collection.

Yet, if we admit the superiority of this particular class, we do not forget the long list of English coins, both before and after the conquest, with the almost unique set of the XX shilling pieces of the first Charles—those of French kings, barons, and dignitaries of the Church, extending back to the time of Charlemagne—the rare collection brought together from the various Italian States, a long line of Doges and Popes recalling the extinct glories of Venice, and we had almost said, Rome, but Rome is the Eternal city—or the array of single, double, and triple crowns that adorn the ranks of almost every prince of Northern Europe for the last 400 years.

Never before has a representative collection of such coins as we have been enumerating, of anything like the magnitude of this, been offered for sale in this country, and we may further add that the Western continent has a larger representation than would be expected in such a cabinet; every South American State presenting a pretty full series, with large numbers from the Mexican and Central American Republics. An occasional gem from our own mint comes back to us in surprising preservation, and, although few in numbers, these will undoubtedly attract a degree of attention quite out of proportion to their numismatic importance.

It is not our purpose here, neither is it necessary, to go at any length into an analysis of the catalogue, but we may be pardoned for further referring, as among the many attractions which it offers, to a number of CLUSTERS of favorite coins, as well as to many others of kindred subject and character that might with advantage have been gathered together in groups. Of the former, a good example is the splendid series of the Teutonic Knights; as instances of the latter may be selected, those that relate to Luther and the Protestant Reformation, coins and tokens issued by monastic institutions and orders, and such as bear heads of great military leaders, like Charles V. of Germany, Henry IV. of France, and Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden: Fine examples of all these will be found under their appropriate heads, or dispersed throughout the catalogue wherever their destinies cast their lot.

The arrangement of the catalogue is so simple that an index of the headings only has been thought sufficient. It might have been better to have given more titles, but as the classification was as thorough as it could conveniently be made, and an attention to dates and alphabetical order pretty generally observed, it is hoped no serious difficulty will be found.

While a careful examination of the catalogue is respectfully invited, the author is free to confess that the labor of preparing it has left him in no frame of mind to exult over his performance: He is convinced that a perfect catalogue of German coins can be made only by one "to the manor born." Yet, so far as regards truth of statement and propriety of attribution, he feels it due to himself and the interests of his friend to whom alone the entire collection belongs, to declare that he has not followed blind guides.

WM. H. STROBRIDGE.

74 —— Hammered and milled Sixpences. Good. 2 pieces

75 —— Hammered alone. Different M. M. Good. 3 pieces

76 —— Similar to last. Different M. M. 3 pieces

There seems to be good reason for taking up the coins of Scotland at this point, as the next King of England was the son of Mary Stuart. Therefore, we shall bring that series down to the present time, and afterwards continue the coins of England, Ireland, and Scotland under one head.

107 CHARLES I. 1625. Penny. M. M., rose. Ex. fine.
108 —— Pennies. Two varieties. 2 pieces
109 —— Penny. Very fine.
110 —— Twopence. Good.
111 —— Groat. Very fine.
112 —— Sixpence. Fair.
113 —— Shilling. M. M., fleur-de-lis (coined before 1626). Fine and very rare.
114 —— Shilling. Different type. Very good, rare.
115 —— 1628. Arms on a shield within the garter; rev. sceptre and trident crossed "Regit. VNUS VIROQVE." Of excellent workmanship, and in fine preservation. Pattern shilling (by Briot.) Rare.
116 —— Half-crown. York mint. M. M. lion passant gardant, EBOR under the horse. Very rare, but considerably rubbed.
117 —— Crown. Coined at the Tower. The King on horseback, with a raised sword in his hand, Welch plume behind. The silver stained or tarnished, but uncommonly well preserved. Really fine, rare.
118 —— Pound piece. 1642. A small figure of the King on horseback, very little ground under the horse, the plume higher in the area than the King's head; rev. in two straight lines RELIG. PROT. LEG. ANG. LIBER. PAR; date below; usual motto around, XX and three Welch plumes above the legend. Very fine.
119 —— Pound piece of 1642; obv. the King on a larger and finer horse, his dress and the caparisons more rich, the plume on a line with his sash; heaps of armor beneath the horse; rev. nearly same as last. Still finer than before.
120 —— Pound piece of 1643. In all but date like one last described; it also differs slightly in the division of the legend. Fully equal to last.
121 —— Pound piece of 1644. Obv. similar to last; rev. the legend in three curving lines on a sheet; below, date and OX. Fine and rare to excess.

It is hardly necessary to refer to the rarity of these XX. shilling pieces, but that the four varieties, as described and engraved by Snelling, should be found in the same collection is certainly remarkable. The old German labels or tickets, by one hand, show that the set has been together a long time.

122 CHARLES I. Scotch XL. d. piece. Obv. crowned bust; rev. crowned thistle. Very good, rare.

123 —— Duplicate. Not as good.

124 —— Obsidional Crown; struck in Ireland under a commission dated at Oxford, May 25, 1643; obv. C. R. (for Carolus Rex), a crown above the letters; rev. a large V, filling the area of the coin. Fine example, but not strictly a fine impression. Rare.

125 —— Duplicate. Not as fine.

126 —— St. Patrick's Half-penny; struck at the same time as the crowns above described (1643), also a piece of necessity; obv. a king kneeling, playing on a harp; a crown of brass above; FLOREAT REX.; rev. St. Patrick with crozier and trefoil, a group of figures to l., and arms of the City of Dublin to r., with the legend ECCE GREX. Very fine and rare. Copper.

127 —— Farthing of the same issue; obv. like half-penny; rev. St. Patrick with a cross staff. A church behind him.

[Simon says these Irish coins were struck by the Rebels during Charles' troubles.]

128 COMMONWEALTH. 1648. Half-penny. On one side Cross of St. George, on the reverse a harp. Extremely fine, rare.

129 —— Penny. Obv. Cross of St. George within a palm and olive branch; rev. two joined shields, one bearing cross; the other, harp. Uncirculated and brilliant. Very rare.

130 —— Twopence. Same as last in all but size. Uncirculated. Rare.

131 —— Sixpence. Same type, with the addition of inscription and legend. On the obv. around the device THE COMMONWEALTH OF ENGLAND; on the rev. motto GOD WITH VS. 1654. Fine.

132 —— Shilling. 1656. Same in all respects except size. Rubbed.

Digitized by Google

133 COMMONWEALTH. Half-crown. Same type 1654. Extremely fine; very nearly uncirculated. Rare.

134 —— Crown. 1653. Fine, but weak impression; somewhat rubbed. Rare.

135 —— Half-penny, Penny, and Twopence—the latter very fine; the others pierced. 3 pieces.

136 CROMWELL, 1648 to 1660. Shilling, 1658. Obv. laureated head; rev. shield bearing his escutcheon in the centre of the Arms of England, Scotland, and Ireland, with the legend, PAX QVÆRITUR BELLO. Fair.

137 —— Half-crown. Same series. Uncirculated; in this condition, very rare.

138 —— Crown. Struck before the dies were cracked, without the least trace of the well-known flaw. Edge plain, minted without the collar, fine and sharp. Nearly uncirculated. Excessively rare.

139 —— Crown, cracked die, lettered edge. As fine as last. Rare.

140 —— Same in tin; edge plain. Very fine and rare.

141 —— Same. Lettered edge, equally fine and rare.

[These tin crowns are as valuable and more rare than the silver from the same dies. They were struck in 1658—guaranteed genuine from the Protector's dies, under the supervision of Blondin. The next piece is equally remarkable.]

141* CROMWELL. "For necessary change" a piece of tin money, having the Cross of St. George on one side, and a harp on the other. "½ ounce of fine pewter." See Reeding Pl., xxxi., No. 15. Very interesting and valuable, fine.

142 —— Small oval medallion, without reverse. Cromwell's bust, with inscription commemorating the Battle of Dunbar, THE LORD OF HOSTS, etc., with "Simon" on the edge of the arms; size about 13 x 18. Unique and very fine. Silver.

143 CHARLES II. 1660. Penny. Crowned bust to l. By Simon. Very fine, rare.

144 —— Twopence. Same type. Rubbed.

145 —— Threepence. do do.

405 SILVER BOX, with Hebrew inscription. A Jewish custom, very old, is connected with this box. It seems to be explained by an attribute of Jupiter Serapes, who was represented with a measure or bushel on his head. This box, which is about the size of a thimble, is for the purpose for which it is used, called a bushel, and is given to the bride full of small gold coins. She is, therefore, said to have received in dowry "a bushel of gold." Very curious and uncommon.

406 CRUCIFIX. St. Andrew on a silver cross, laid on a sun, with rays; on the reverse a monogram. Fine silver, solid, heavy, and beautifully enameled. Length, two inches.

407 —— of solid silver. Two Christs, one with roses. Of very old work. Length, 3 inches.

NOTE.—The term "denarius" is used instead of "penny" in the books out of which we get out knowledge concerning these coins. It seems to be proper enough, and the two terms will be found in this Catalogue in different departments, (and perhaps sometimes in the same), applied to coins of the same class. The writer has not been at all careful or discriminating in this regard, but hopes to be forgiven for such trifles in a work where graver faults will be found not particularly rare.

Méreaux and Jetons. Copper.

Mereaux, like Jetons, have a historical value, both bearing legends and armorial devices true to the time and place of their issue, but the former had originally a monetary value, and were hardly distinguished from coins.

652 MÉREAUX of the 15th and 16th centuries, with remarkable devices and mottoes, many portraits, the metal brass or copper, sometimes a mixture of both, from size 12 to 20. All fine, some patinated. 20 pieces.

653 —— Similar. 20 pieces.

654 —— Similar. Equally fine. 20 pieces.

655 —— Selected. Extra fine. 20 pieces.

The Abbe Barthelemy, in a history of the coins of Europe, from the time of Charles the Great, urges the importance of these tokens, and gives the only account of them that I have met with. They are entirely distinct from Jetons both in their nature and use. They have occasionally found their way into our collections, under the name of "Abbey pieces;" but many of the pieces, properly so-called, are legitimate COINS, examples of which are not wanting in this collection.

656 JETONS. Extremely fine. Thicker than the Méreaux. Many equal to the finest medals. From size 16 to 22. 10 pieces

[Accompanying this coin is the following note: "Obtained through great personal exertions from Dr. Liebig, from the collection of his intimate friend, the celebrated traveler, Prof. Schledehausen, now deceased." This information is interesting, yet the great traveler may have been imposed upon. The motive to do it was large, on account of the extreme rarity and great value of a dollar of this date. It would be rash to decide absolutely against its authenticity, but the purchaser must exercise his own judgment.]

1493 Cut Money, formerly much used on the Spanish Main. The Quarter covered with marks of circulation among the Chinese. 3 pieces.

["Cob" money conformed to the lawful standard in weight and fineness, but was struck with the hammer, without much regard to regularity of form or impression. The date shows that the larger portion of it was issued before the year 1740; but in this collection is a dollar bearing the date 1772 (or, as written, 772, the thousandth place being omitted), which is very remarkable. The "8," which is so conspicuous on the dollars, signifies 8 reals, and, combined with the two columns which always appear rising out of the water on one side of these coins, becomes our dollar mark—thus $.]

NETHERLANDS.

Silver Coins.

The territories comprising the kingdoms of the Netherlands and Belgium' formerly existed as distinct principalities under the names, Guelders, Brabant, Luxemburg, and Limburg—Duchies; with the counties of Antwerp, Holland, Zealand, Zutphen, Flanders, Arlois, Hainaut, and Nemur; and the Lordships of Utrecht, Groningen, Overyssel, Friesland, and Mechlin. Having passed into the house of Austria, and through the Emperor Charles V. into the hands of Philip II. of Spain, seven of these provinces revolted, and their independence was finally acknowledged under the name of the "United Provinces." Things continued pretty much in this shape until Napoleon created the "Kingdom of Holland," and subsequent revolutions have established the present kingdom.

The chronology of the Princes of Reuss, as exhibited above, appears to be slightly confused, but the titles and dates will be found on the coins as described. As similar descriptions in Wellenheim's Catalogue pass without comment, it is to be presumed that however inscrutable to us, the system is understood, and approved in the "Fatherland."
